THE WOUNDS OF JESUS
NO. 254

A SERMON
DELIVERED ON SABBATH EVENING, JANUARY 30, 1859,
BY THE REV. C. H. SPURGEON,
AT THE NEW PARK STREET CHAPEL, SOUTHWARK.

“He showed them His hands and His feet.”

I. First, then, OF WHAT USE WAS THE EXHIBITION OF THOSE WOUNDS TO THE DISCIPLES? I reply at once that they were infallible proofs that He was the same person! He said, “Behold My hands and feet; that it is I, Myself.” It was to establish His identity—that He was the very same Jesus whom they had followed, whom at last they had deserted—whom they had beheld afar off crucified and slain and whom they had carried to the tomb in the gloom of the evening. It was the very same Christ who was now before them and they might know it—for there was the seal of His sufferings upon Him! He was the same person. The hands and feet could testify to that. You know, beloved, had not some such evidence been visible upon our Savior, it is probable that His disciples would have been unbelieving enough to doubt the identity of His person. Have you ever seen men changed, extremely changed in their external appearance? I have known a man, perhaps five or six years ago. He has passed through a world of suffering and pain and when I have seen him again, I have declared, “I would not have known you if I had met you in the street.” Now, when the disciples parted with Jesus, it was at the Lord’s Supper. They then walked with Him into the garden. There did the Savior sweat, “as it were, great drops of blood.” Do you not imagine that such a wrestling, such a bloody sweat as that, must have had some effect upon His visage? It had surely had enough to mar it before. But now the plowshares of grief were sharpened and anguish made deep furrows upon Him! There must have been lines of grief upon His brow, deeper than they had ever seen before. This would have produced a change great enough to make them forget His countenance. And this was not all. You know he had to undergo the flagellation at the pillar of the Praetorian and then to die. Can you imagine that a man could pass through the process of death, through such astonishing agony as that which the Savior endured and yet that there should be

The Wounds of Jesus

Tell someone today how much you love Jesus Christ.

II. Let us turn to the second question—WHY SHOULD CHRIST WEAR THESE WOUNDS IN HEAVEN, AND OF WHAT USE ARE THEY? Let me give you some thoughts upon the matter.

I can conceive, first, that the wounds of Christ in heaven will be a theme of eternal wonder to the angels. An old writer represents the angels as saying, “Oh, Lord of glory, what are these wounds on Your hands? They had seen Him depart from heaven, and they had gone with Him as far as they might go, singing, ‘Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth.’” Some of them had watched Him through His pilgrimage, for “He was seen of angels.” But when He returned, I doubt not that they crowded around Him, bowed before Him in adoration and then put the holy question, “What are these wounds on Your hands?” At any rate, they were enabled to behold for themselves in heaven the man who suffered and they could see the wounds which were produced in His body by His sufferings. And I can readily imagine that this would cause them to lift their songs higher; would prolong their shouts of triumph and would cause them to adore Him with a rapture of wonderment such as they had never felt before! And I doubt not that every time they look upon His hands and behold the crucified man exalted by His Father’s side, they are afresh wrapped in wonder and again they strike their harps with more joyous fingers at the thought of what He must have suffered who thus bears the scars of His hard-fought battles!

Again—Christ wears these scars in His body in heaven as His ornaments. The wounds of Christ are His glories—they are His jewels and His precious things. To the eye of the believer Christ is never so glorious, never so passing fair as when we can say of Him, “My Beloved is white and ruddy”—white with innocence and ruddy with His own blood! He never seems as beautiful as when we can see Him as... the rose and the lily. As the lily, matchless purity and as the rose, crimsoned with His own gore. We may talk of Christ in His beauty, in many places raising the dead and stilling the tempest, but oh, there never was such a matchless Christ as He who did hang upon the cross! There I behold all His beauties, all His attributes developed, all His love drawn out, all His character expressed in letters so legible that even my poor stammering heart can read those lines and speak them out again—as I see them written in crimson upon the bloody tree. Beloved, these are to Jesus what they are to us. They are His ornaments, His royal jewels, and His fair array. He does not care for the splendor and pomp of kings. The crown of thorns is His diadem—a diadem such as no monarch ever wore! It is true that He bears not now the reed scepter, but there is a glory in it that there never flashed from a scepter of gold! It is true He is not now buffeted and spit upon—His face is not now marred more than that of any other man by grief and sorrow, for He is glorified and full of blessedness! But He never seems as lovely as when we see Him buffeted of men for our sakes, enduring all manner of grief, bearing our iniquities and carrying our sorrows! Jesus Christ finds such beauties in His wounds that He will not renounce them—He will wear the court dress in which He wooed our souls and He will wear the royal purple of His atonement throughout eternity!

Nor are these the only ornaments of Christ—they are His trophies—the trophies of His love! Have you never seen a soldier with a gash across his forehead or on his cheek? Why every soldier will tell you the wound in battle is no disfigurement—it is his honor! “If” says he, “I received a wound when I was retreating—a wound in the back—that were to my disgrace. If I have received a wound in a victory, then it is an honorable thing to be wounded.” Now Jesus Christ has scars of honor in His flesh and glory in His eyes! He has other trophies—He has divided the spoil with the strong—He has taken the captive away from his tyrant master. He has redeemed for Himself a host that no man can number, who are all the trophies of His victories—but these scars—these are the memorials of the fight and these the trophies, too.

Do you not know it was from the side of Jesus that Death sucked its death? Jesus did hang upon the cross and Death thought to get the victory. Yes, but in its victory, it destroyed itself! There are three things in Christ that Death never met with before, all of which are fatal to it. There was innocence in Christ. Now, as long as man was innocent, he could not die. Adam lived as long as he was innocent. Now Christ was about to die. But Death sucked in innocent blood; he sucked in his own poison, and he died! Again, blessedness is that which takes away the sting of death. Now Christ, even when He was dying, was “God over all, blessed forever.” All that Death had ever killed before was under the curse. But this man was never by nature under the curse—because for our sakes He was not born into this world a cursed man! He was the seed of woman, it is true, but still not of carnal generation. He did come under the curse when He took upon Himself our sins, but not for His own sins. He was in Himself blessed. Death sucked in blessed blood! He had never done that before—all others have been under the curse—and that slew Death. It was innocence combined with blessedness that was the destruction of Death! Yet another thing; Death had never met before with any man who had life in himself. But when Death drank Christ’s blood, it drunk life, for His blood is the life of the soul and is the seed of life eternal! Where ever it goes, does it not give life to the dead? And Death, finding that it had drunk into its own veins life in the form of Jesus’ blood gave up the ghost! Death itself is dead, for Christ has destroyed it by the sacrifice of Himself! He has put it away. He has said, “Oh death, where is your sting? Oh grave, where is your victory?” But now, since it was from these very wounds that Death sucked in its own death, and that hell was destroyed—since these were the only weapons of a weaponless Redeemer, He wears and bears them as His trophies in heaven! David laid up Goliath’s sword before the Lord forever. Jesus lays up His wounds before the Lord, for His wounds were His weapons, and this is why He still wears them.

I was thinking while coming here of Jesus Christ in heaven with His wounds and another thought struck me. Another reason why Jesus wears His wounds is that when He intercedes, He may employ... them as powerful advocates. When He rises up to pray for His people, He needs not speak a word! He lifts His hands before His Father’s face. He makes bare His side and points to His feet. These are the orators with which He pleads with God—these wounds! Oh, He must prevail! Do you not see that Christ without His wounds in heaven might be potent enough, but there would not be that glorious simplicity of intercession which you now see—He has nothing to do but to show His hands! The Father hears Him always. His blood cries and is heard; His wounds plead and prevail.

Let us think again. Jesus Christ appears in heaven as the wounded one—this again shows that He has not laid aside His priesthood. You know how Watts paraphrases the idea. He says—

“Looks like a lamb that has been slain,
And wears His priesthood still.”

If the wounds had been removed, we might have forgotten that there was a sacrifice. And, perhaps, next we might have forgotten that there was a priest. But the wounds are there—then there is a sacrifice and there is a priest, also, for He who is wounded is both Himself the sacrifice and the priest! The priesthood of Melchisedek is a glorious subject. He who reads that with the eyes of faith and is blessed with the Spirit, will find much cause for joy when he contrasts the priesthood of Christ with that of Aaron. The priesthood of Aaron began and it finished. But the priesthood of Melchisedek had no beginning and it had no end. He was, we are told, “Without beginning of days and without end of years”—without father, without mother, without descent. Such is the priesthood of Christ! It shall never end. He Himself is without beginning and His priesthood is without end! When the last ransomed soul is brought in; when there shall be no more prayers to offer, Christ shall still be a priest. Though He has no sacrifice now to slay, for He is the sacrifice Himself, “once and for all,” yet still He is a priest and when all His people, as the result of that sacrifice, shall be assembled around His glorious throne, He shall still be the priest! “For You are a priest forever after the order of Melchisedek.” I take it that this is a further reason why He still bears His wounds in heaven.

There is another and a terrible reason why Christ still wears His wounds. It is this. Christ is coming to judge the world. Christ has with Himself today the accusers of His enemies. Every time that Christ lifts His hands to heaven, the men that hate Him, or despise Him, are accused. The Jewish nation is brought in guilty every day! The cry is remembered, “His blood be on us and on our children.” And the sin of casting Christ away and rejecting Him is brought before the mind of the Most High. And when Christ shall come a second time to judge the world in righteousness, seated on the Great White throne, those hands of His shall be the terror of the universe! “They shall look on Him whom they have pierced,” and they shall mourn for their sins! They would not mourn with hopeful penitence in time— they shall mourn with sorrowful remorse throughout eternity! When the multitude is gathered together; when in the valley of Jehoshaphat Christ shall judge the nations, what need He to summon accusers? His own wounds are His witnesses! Why need He summon any to convict men of sin? His side bears their handiwork! You murderers, did you not do this? You sons of an evil generation, did you not pierce the Savior? Did you not nail Him to the tree? Behold these holes in My hands and this stab in My side! These are swift witnesses against you to condemn you! There is a terrible side, then, to this question. A crucified Christ with His wounds still open will be a terrible sight for an assembled universe. “Well,” says one of my congregation, “What is that to us? We have not crucified the Savior.” Did you not nail Him to the tree? Behold these holes in My hands and this stab in My side! These are swift witnesses against you to condemn you! There is a terrible side, then, to this question. A crucified Christ with His wounds still open will be a terrible sight for an assembled universe. “Well,” says one of my congregation, “What is that to us? We have not crucified the Savior.” No, but let me assure you that His blood shall be on you! If you die unbelievers, His blood shall be required at your hands! The death of Christ was worked by the hands of manhood, of all and the entire manhood! Others did it for you and though you gave no verbal consent, yet you do assent in your heart every day! As long as you hate Christ, you give an assent to His death. As long as you reject His sacrifice and despise His love, you give evidence in your hearts that you would have crucified the Lord of glory had you been there! No, and you do yourself, so far as you can, crucify Him afresh and put Him to an open shame! When you laugh at His people; when you despise His Word and mock at His ordinances; you are driving nails into His hands and thrusting the spear into His side. Therefore, those open hands and that pierced side shall be witnesses against you, even against you, if you die rejecting Him and enter into eternity enemies to Christ by wicked works!

I think I have thus supplied several excellent reasons. But now, there is one more which I shall offer for your consideration before I come to the lesson which you shall learn. Christ wears those marks on His hands that, as believers, you may never forget that He has died. We shall need, perhaps, nothing to refresh our memories in heaven. But still, even if we should, we have it here. When we shall have been in heaven many a thousand years, we shall still have the death of Christ before us—we shall see Him reigning—but can you not conceive, that the presence of the wounded Christ will often stir up the holy hearts of the celestial beings to a fresh outpouring of their grateful songs? They begin the song thus, “Unto Him that lives.” Jesus looks upon them and shows His hands and they add, “and was dead and is alive forever more and has the keys of hell and death.” They would not forget that He died. But certainly that part of the song where it said, “And was dead,” will have all the more sweetness because there He sits with the very marks of His passion—with the nail prints of His crucifixion. If we shall be in heaven at all constituted as we are on earth, we shall need some visible token to keep us continually in remembrance. Here, you know, the most spiritual saint needs the bread and wine—sweet emblems of the Savior’s body. There we shall have nothing to do with emblems, for we shall have the sight of Him! And, I say, if we are in heaven anything like what we are here, I can imagine that the presence of Jesus may be highly beneficial; may be gloriously precious to the saints, in reviving their love continually and causing their hearts, which are like fountains of love, to bubble up afresh and send out again the living water of gratitude and thanksgiving!

At any rate, I know this thought is very delightful to me, that I shall see the man that did hang on Calvary’s cross and that I shall see Him as He did hang there! I delight to see my Savior in all the glories of His Father, but I long to go back and see Him as He was, as well as He is. I think I should sometimes envy Peter and the rest of them, that they should have seen Him crucified. Yes, I would say, I see Him Glorified, but you saw the most marvelous sight. To see a God is an everyday sight with glorified beings, but to see a God covered with His own blood—this is an extraordinary thing! To see Christ glorified, that we may see each day, but to have seen Him on that special occasion, made obedient unto death, even to the death of the cross, that was an extraordinary sight which even angels themselves could see but once! You and I cannot see that. But those wounds are still manifest there and visible and we shall be delighted with the rapturous sight of the Lord in glory, with His wounds still fresh upon Him! May the Lord grant that we may all be there to see it! May we refresh ourselves with that glorious sight! I can say that I would part with all the joys of sense to view His face. Everything that is good on earth I would give away without a wish, without one single lingering thought, if I might but behold His face and lie in His bosom and see the dear pierced hands and the wide-open side. We must wait His pleasure. A few more rolling suns shall do it! The moon shall rise and wane for us a few more times and then—

III. This brings me now to the third point. WHAT DOES CHRIST MEAN BY SHOWING US HIS HANDS AND FEET? He means this—that suffering is absolutely necessary. Christ is the head and His people are the members. If suffering could have been avoided, surely our glorious head ought to have escaped. But, inasmuch as He shows us His wounds, it is to tell us that we shall have wounds, too! Innocence ought to escape suffering. Did not Pilate mean as much when he said, “I find no fault in Him, therefore let Him go”? But innocence did not escape suffering. Even the captain of our salvation must be made perfect through suffering! Therefore, we who are guilty; we who are far from being perfect must not wonder that we have to be wounded, too. Shall our head be crowned with thorns and do you imagine that the other members of the body are to be rocked upon the dainty lap of ease? Must Jesus Christ swim through seas of His own blood to win the crown and are you and I to walk to heaven dry shod in silver slippers? No, the wounds of Christ are to teach us that suffering is necessary. In fact, that doctrine was taught upon Mount Calvary. There are only three sorts of men that have ever lived—a good man, a bad man and the God-man. Now, on Calvary’s cross, I see three characters—I see the thief, the representative of the bad; I see the penitent thief, the representative of the righteous—and I see the God-man between them. All three must suffer. Do not imagine for a moment that wicked men get through this world without suffering. Oh, no! The path to hell is very rough, though it seems smooth. When men will damn themselves, they will not find it a very pleasurable task. The cutting the throat of one’s soul is not such a pleasant operation. The drinking the poison of damnation is not, after all, an enviable task. The path of the sinner may seem to be happy, but it is not. It is a gilded deceit. He knows there is bitterness in his heart, even here on earth. Even the wicked must suffer! But, mark, if any out of the world would have escaped, it would be the God-man. But the God-man did not escape. He shows us His wounds. And do you think that you shall remain unwounded? Not if you are His, at any rate. Men sometimes escape on earth. But the true-born child of God must not and would not, if he might, for if he did, he would then give himself cause to say, “I am no part of the body. If I were a part of the body; my head suffered and so must I suffer, for I am part of His living body.” That is the first lesson He teaches us—the necessity of suffering.

But next, He teaches us His sympathy with us in our suffering. “There,” He says, “look at this hand! I am not a High Priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of your infirmities. I have suffered, too. I was tempted in all ways like as you are. Look here!—there are the marks—there are the marks! They are not only tokens of My love; they are not only sweet forget-me-nots that bind Me to love you forever—besides that, they are the evidence of My sympathy! I can feel for you. Look what I have suffered. Have you a heartache? Ah, look here, what a heartache I had when this heart was pierced! Do you suffer, even unto blood, wrestling against sin? So did I. I have sympathy with you!” It was this that sustained the early martyrs. One of them declared that while he was suffering, he fixed his eyes on Christ. And when they were pinching his flesh—dragging it off with the hot harrows; when they were putting him to agonies so extraordinary, that I could not dare to mention them here, lest some of you should faint even under the very narrative—he said, “My soul is not insensible, but it loves.” What a glorious speech was that! It loves—it loves Christ! It was not insensible, but love gave it power to overcome suffering—a power as potent as insensibility! “For,” he said, “my eyes are fixed on Him who suffered for me, and by His grace, I can suffer for Him, for my soul is in His body. I have sent my heart up to Him. He is my brother and there is my heart. Plow my flesh and break my bones—smash them with your irons—I can bear it all for Jesus suffered and He now suffers in me—He sympathizes with me and this makes me strong.” Yes, beloved, lay hold on this in all times of your agony. When you are sweating, think of His bloody sweat. When you are bruised, think of the whips that tore His flesh. And when you are dying, think of His death. And when God hides His face for a little from you, think of, “My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me!” This is why He wears His wounds on His hands—that He may show that He sympathizes with you.

Another thing—Christ wears these wounds to show that suffering is an honorable thing. To suffer for Christ is glory! Men will say, “It is glorious to make others suffer.” When Alexander rides over the necks of princes, and treads nations beneath his feet, that is glorious. The Christian religion teaches us it is glorious to be trod on, glorious to be crushed, glorious to suffer. This is hard to learn! There we see it in our glorified Master. He makes His wounds His glory and His sufferings are part of the drapery of His regal attire in Paradise. Now, then, it is an honorable thing to suffer. Oh, Christian, when you are overtaken by strange troubles, be not afraid! God is near you! It was Christ’s honor to suffer and it is yours, too. The only degree that God gives to His people is the degree of, “Masters in tribulation.” If you would be one of God’s nobles, you must be knighted! Men are knighted with a blow of the sword. The Lord knights us with the sword of affliction. And when we fight hard in many a battle, He makes us barons of the kingdom of heaven—He makes us dukes and lords in the kingdom of sorrowful honor—not through honor of man, but through dishonor of man—not through joy, but through suffering and grief and agony and death! The highest honor that God can confer upon His children is the blood-red crown of martyrdom. When I read, as I have been reading lately, the story of the catacombs of Rome and those short, but very pithy inscriptions that are written over the graves of the martyrs, I felt sometimes as if I could envy them. I do not envy them their racks, their hot irons, their being dragged at the heels of horses. But I do envy them when I see them arrayed in the blood-red robe of martyrdom. Who are they who stand nearest to the eternal throne, foremost of the saints in light? Why, the noble army of martyrs! And just as God shall give us grace to suffer for Christ, to suffer with Christ and to suffer as Christ, just so much does He honor us! The jewels of a Christian are his afflictions. The regalia of the kings who God has made, are their troubles, their sorrows and their griefs. Let us not, therefore, shun being honored! Let us not turn aside from being exalted! Griefs exalt us and troubles lift us!

Lastly, there is one sweet thought connected with the wounds of Christ that has charmed my soul and made my heart run over with delight. It is this—I have sometimes thought that if I am a part of Christ’s body, I am a poor wounded part. If I do belong to that all-glorious whole, the church, which is His fullness, the fullness of Him who fills all-in-all, yet have I said within me, “I am a poor maimed part; wounded, full of putrefying sores.” But Christ did not leave even His wounds behind Him—even those He took to heaven. “Not a bone of Him shall be broken,” and the flesh, when wounded, shall not be discarded—shall not be left. He shall carry that with Him to heaven and He shall glorify even the wounded member! Is not this sweet; is not this precious to the troubled child of God? This, indeed, is a thought from which one may suck honey—poor, weak and wounded though I am—He will not discard me! His wounds are healed wounds—mark—they are not running sores! And so, though we are the wounded parts of Christ, we shall be healed! Though we shall seem to ourselves in looking back upon what we were upon earth only as wounds, only parts of a wounded body, still we shall rejoice that He has healed those wounds and that He has not cast us away! Precious, precious truth of God! The whole body He will present before His Father’s face and wounded though He is, He shall not cast His own wounds away! Let us take comfort, then, in this. Let us rejoice therein. We shall be presented at last, without spot or wrinkle, or any such thing. Mark, Christ’s wounds are no spots to Him, no wrinkles—they are ornaments! And even those parts of His church on earth who despair of themselves; thinking themselves to be as wounds; shall be no spots, no wrinkles in the complete church above, but even they shall be the ornaments and the glory of Christ! Let us now look up by faith and see Jesus, the wounded Jesus, sitting on His throne. Will not this help us to gird up our loins to “run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God”? I cannot send you away without this last remark. Poor sinner, you are troubled on account of sin. There is a sweet thought for you. Men are afraid to go to Christ, or else they say, “My Sins are so many I cannot go to Him. He will be angry with me.” Do you see His hands outstretched to you tonight? He is in heaven and He still says, “Come unto Me all you who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.” Are you afraid to come? Then, look at His hands—look at His hands—will not that induce you? “Oh,” but you say, “I cannot think that Christ can have it in His heart to remember such a worm as I.” Look at His side, there is easy access to His heart! His side is open and even your poor prayers may be thrust into that side and they shall reach His heart, holy though it is! Only look to His wounds and you shall certainly find peace through the blood of Jesus! There were two monks of late years in different cells in their convent. They were reading the Bible. One of them found Christ while reading the Scriptures, and he believed with a true evangelical faith. The other one was timid and could scarcely think it true. The scheme of salvation seemed so great to him, he could scarcely lay hold upon it. But, at last, he lay upon the point to die, and he sent for the other to come and sit by him and to shut the door, because if the superior had heard of that of which they were about to speak, he might have condemned them both. When the monk had sat down, the sick man began to tell how his sins lay heavy on him. The other reminded him of Jesus. “If you would be saved, brother, you must look to Jesus who did hang upon the cross. His wounds will save.” The poor man heard and he believed. Almost immediately afterwards came in the superior, with the brothers and the priests. And they began to grease him in extreme unction. This poor man tried to push them away. He could not bear the ceremony, and as well as he could, he expressed his dissent. At last his lips were opened and he said in Latin, “Tu vulnera Jesu!”—Your wounds, oh Jesus! Your wounds, oh Jesus!—clasped his hands, lifted them to heaven, fell back and died! Oh, I would that many a Protestant would die with these words on their lips! There was the fullness of the gospel in them—Your wounds, oh Jesus! Your wounds! These are my refuge in my trouble. Oh sinner, may you be helped to believe in His wounds! They cannot fail! Christ’s wounds must heal those who put their trust in Him!
