“CLEAR SHINING AFTER RAIN”
NO. 2284

A SERMON
INTENDED FOR READING ON LORD’S-DAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1892
DELIVERED BY C. H. SPURGEON
AT THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE, NEWINGTON
ON LORD’S-DAY EVENING, JULY 20, 1890

“As the tender grass springing out of the earth by clear shining after rain.”
2 Samuel 23:4

WHAT a blessing it is to the country if at certain seasons, we have a time of clear shining after the rain! Under some circumstances nothing but sunshine will save the crops that are ready to be reaped, and there will be great loss to the farming interest, and indeed to us all, unless we have the sunshine when it is needed. We must never neglect to pray to the Lord who alone can give to the natural world, clear shining after rain.

Our text however, has a higher meaning than this. These words occur in David’s description of a fit, true, and wise ruler. All rulers have not been fit to rule, indeed in David’s day, and in most Oriental countries at the present time, the King, the Sultan, the Emperor, the Shah, all rule for themselves. Their one great business is to extort all the taxes they can from the people, and to give them as little as possible in return. To fleece the sheep is the great business of an Oriental shepherd, to feed them does not seem to enter into his mind.

But David says that where rulers were wise, just, and upright, their country flourished. A good ruler, especially in the East, where he had everything in his own hand when he came to the throne, was like “a morning without clouds,” and the people round him grew like the grass in times when, after heavy showers of rain, the sun looks forth with cheerful rays, and warms the earth into verdure.

We may be thankful, dear friends, that we do not know what despotic rule means, for good as it may occasionally happen to be, it may also be intolerably bad. Let other lands have what masters they will, but let us be free and our own masters still, as we still are, thanks to the gracious providence of God that has smiled upon us.

The beautiful simile by which David sets forth the rule of a good king, I will first take out of its connection, and look at it for other purposes, and then I will put it back into its connection, and use it as David used it, only in a higher sense. The beautiful picture that he draws is produced by a combination, first rain, and then clear shining after rain, and the most flourishing condition of spirituality is produced by the same two causes, it comes as the result of a combination of rain and sunshine. We shall never rise to the highest spiritual state by having all rain and no sunshine.

Although we may prefer it, we shall never attain to the fullest fruit bearing, by having all sunshine and no rain. God puts the one over against the other, the dark day of cloud and tempest against the bright day of sunshine and calm, and when the two influences work together in the soul, as they do in the natural world, they produce the greatest degree of fertility, and the best condition of heart and life.

I intend to use the text in four ways, and first I shall show you how the “clear shining after rain” is manifested in the heart of the convert. In the second place, I shall point out to you how this “clear shining after rain” often produces the best condition of things in the soul of the believer. Thirdly, I shall prove to you that our text makes a very happy combination in the ministry of the Word, and in closing, I shall speak to you about the “clear shining after rain” in the ages to come.

I. I shall begin by showing you how the “clear shining after rain” is manifested IN THE HEART OF THE CONVERT.
When a man is truly converted, do you know how it is manifested? All conversions are not alike, there is a very great difference between them. Some are very definite, you can tell to a minute when the man is converted. Others are very indistinct, there is a long previous preparatory process, and you cannot say exactly when the man turned to God. If you get up tomorrow morning and do not look at the Almanac, but look toward the east and take a pencil, and try to mark down exactly when the sun rises, I think it is highly probable that you will not manage the task correctly.

On an extremely clear and bright morning, you might tell to a second, when the rim of the sun appeared above the horizon, but we do not often have clear, bright mornings nowadays. We have not seen the sun much lately, and probably, you would find that he was up before you had made the pencil mark, and most likely you would learn that he was up before you had discovered when he rose.

So it is often in the workings of divine grace. Some men have the light of God, but they cannot tell when the light first came to them. Let none of you imagine that you are not converted because you do not know the hour when it occurred, otherwise you would be as foolish as I should be if I said to some old lady, “How old are you?” “Well, I am somewhere about eighty.” “But when was your birthday? Do you not remember your birthday?” “No, sir, I do not.”

Suppose I were to tell her she was not alive because she did not know her birthday, I should be very foolish, and if you say to yourself, “Soul, you were never born again because you do not know when the event happened,” you will be very foolish too. If you can say, “One thing I know, whereas I was blind, but now I see,” be satisfied and grateful, even though you cannot tell when the great miracle was wrought. Conversions then, are not all alike.

Yet, as a usual rule, the work of grace begins in the heart with a time of gloom. Clouds gather, there is a general dampness round about, the soul seems saturated with doubt, fear, dread. There is something coming, but the soul knows not what, it feels that it is very sinful, and deserves whatever punishment God may send.

Perhaps some of you are passing through that stage of experience just now. You get sadder and yet more sad every day, and yet you do not quite know why. You used to go to the theater, and you enjoyed it, but you went the other night and it seemed very dreary to you, as indeed it is. You went off to some gay company, where you used to be very merry, but you seemed quite out of spirits, you could not join in their merriment, you were glad to get home. Something ails you, something ails you. Yes, the clouds are gathering over your head. That is how grace usually begins to work in the soul that God means to save and bless.

After the clouds, in the next place, the rain falls. The real work of the Spirit of God often follows upon an inward depression of spirit. Now you begin really to repent of sin, now you begin to sigh and cry for Christ. You wish you knew Him, you wish you loved Him. Tears begin to drop, or if they do not actually fall from your eyes, yet there are inward weepings, and your soul is getting moist now with deep contrition, hatred of sin, dread of God’s anger, the fear of the wrath to come, and a wish to lay hold on eternal life.

Now the rains, the blessed rains, have come and softened your heart. If we were to water all the fields in summer time, when the sun is shining with a scorching heat, it would be of very little use indeed. An Irish friend of mine once said that he had carefully noticed that it did not rain when the sun was shining, but that, whenever it rained, there were always some clouds to keep the sunshine off.

There is a great truth in what my friend said. Rain becomes doubly precious to the earth when all the surroundings are suitable for its reception. All the atmosphere becomes damp, whereas, if rain could fall when all is dry and warm, mischief might come of it. Well now, God’s Holy Spirit loves to come and work in man a congenial atmosphere, a holy tenderness, a devout heartbreaking, then with the clouds He brings a heavenly rain.

What comes after the rain? Then the sun shines, “clear shining after rain.” I am describing the conversion of a man to God, not in a cast-iron style, for as I have already told you, experiences differ. But as a rule, after the softening, saturating influences of the Holy Spirit have come to the man, then the clouds go, the rain ceases, and there comes clear shining. The sun shines out. The man perceives that he is a sinner, but that Christ has come to save him. He sees his own blackness, but he believes that Christ can make him whiter than snow. He mourns his own rebellions, but he rejoices that he is made a reconciled child, and admitted into the sacred family.

Now look at him, his face is full of brightness, he looks as if he would like to dance, he feels so happy. His sins are washed away, he has believed in Jesus, he has rested in Christ’s finished work, and now he is as merry as the birds in May. His cheerful exclamation is, “I feel like singing all the time,” for he is enjoying the clear shining after the rain.

I should like to encourage any here tonight who are going through the rain time. Believe me, it will not last forever, you shall yet say, “Lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone, the flowers appear on the earth, the time of the singing of birds is come.” It will come all the sooner to you if you at once come to Christ. Look to Him as lifted up on the cross for you, and you are now saved. God grant that you may do so at once!

Well now, what happens after this? We have come as far as the clear shining after rain, what follows this? Why, then everything grows. The grass is sure to grow when we have mist and heat together, and when a soul, having felt its need of Christ, at last beholds the light of His countenance, then it begins to grow.

I love to see young converts with all the freshness of their newborn faith, they have not borrowed their language from other people. I like to see them with their zeal, they are not quite so prudent as some of us older people are. You will find that they are doing this, and doing that, and doing the other good thing, and the prudent people tell them not to do too much.

My dear young friend, do not listen to them! There is many an old saint who has been spokesman for the devil when he has tried to hold a young Christian back from doing more for Christ. I had a number of kind friends when I began laboring for the Lord, and especially when I began to preach, and these kind friends provided me with an unlimited quantity of blankets, and very wet blankets they were too.
They were afraid that I should get too hot in my Master’s service, so they were always ready with wet blankets to dampen my ardor. I do think that sometimes, when Satan wants to repress the zeal of young converts, he finds more efficient servants among good people than he does among bad ones.

Brethren, let the young converts grow, they will not grow too fast. Let them serve God zealously, they will not do too much for Him. Let them burn with vehement zeal, there are plenty in the world who will try to cool it down. God grant that our young friends may be able to resist that chilling influence, and may still be full of earnest might and spiritual strength in the service of their Savior!

That then, is the usual method of the progress of a convert, clouds, rain, clear shining, and then growth. We pray that we may see this process perfected in very many.

II. But now, secondly, I am going to use the text in another way. This “clear shining after rain” often produces the very best condition of things IN THE SOUL OF THE BELIEVER.

You will see this state of things manifested in trial followed by deliverance. Were you ever nearer to God, my dear tried friend, than after a very heavy affliction, when God appeared for you, and brought you out of it? I can only speak for myself, but I must say this, in times of prosperity I have not always felt so much the nearness of God as in moments of great sorrow and tribulation, when I have sobbed myself to sleep upon the breast of my dear Lord, and when I have awaked, and have found that He has done for me what my helplessness could not do, and has set me free from my foes, and made me to rejoice in His name, then have I seen Him, then have I known Him, when He has delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

See then, dear souls, you who love the Lord, you may expect to have trials, and you may expect to have deliverances too, for your very best state of growth comes of the two together, rain and then the clear shining after the rain, trial followed by deliverance.

Next, this experience is realized in humiliation of self followed by joy in the Lord. It is a very healthy thing for a man to be made to know himself, and if he is made to know himself, he will have no cause for boasting. There is not a corner in our nature in which we may sit down and say, “I have something which is good within me which I have myself wrought out.” If there be anything good in us, it is the gift of God alone.

The Lord often takes us down into our own natural hearts, and there conducts us from chamber to chamber, that we may see our own filthiness and vileness. I suppose that nobody here knows quite how bad he is by nature. If we could fully know it, our reason might reel. We might never be able to hope again, if we fully knew all the depravity of our hearts.

Now, for a man to have plenty of rain to make him realize how evil he is, and then to have coupled with that a full conviction of the greatness and blessedness of Christ, and of his own interest in Christ; to see sin and then to see the one great Sacrifice for sin; to see our death, and then to see Christ our life; this is the very best condition for any of us to be in.

I would not have you glory in Christ, I do not think you can rightly glory in Christ, unless you also sorrow because of your own distance from Him, and your own natural depravity. It is for our good to have this twofold experience. We might get presumptuous if we were allowed to always enjoy the clear shining, we might then think that there was no reason to watch, no further cause to carry the shield of faith, or to wield the sword of the Spirit.

To preserve us from this evil, we often get taken down a notch or two. We are made to see our necessity, that we may value all the more, the riches of God in Christ Jesus. Put those two together, deep self-humiliation and highly prizeing our precious Christ, and you have a condition of things in which a child of God can grow.

Next, I think there is another happy combination of rain and clear shining, namely, tenderness mixed with assurance. I like to meet with that man, whom Mr. Bunyan speaks of in his “Pilgrim’s Progress,” who was, above many, tender of sin. He was not afraid of lions, but he was dreadfully afraid of sins. He was not afraid of Vanity Fair, it had no charms for him, but he had some doubts about his interest in the Celestial country.

I love to see a child of God who, like Mr. Fearing, is very tender of sin. I know some who hardly dare put one foot before the other, for fear they should do wrong. I do not like this tenderness to become morbid, for then it causes unnecessary grief, but yet holy tenderness is a very beautiful characteristic of a child of God when it has mingled with it the clear shining of a full assurance that enables the man to say, “I know whom I have believed; I know I am God’s child; I know that none shall pluck me from His hand.

Are the glorified spirits in heaven.”

These two things, tenderness and assurance, operating together, will produce a high state of spiritual fertility. It is a dreadful thing to see the full assurance of some men! I heard of one man in a public-house, saying, as he drank, I do not know how many glasses of beer, “I may take what I like, for I am a child of God.”

O wretched blasphemer! What worse blasphemy could there be than such talk as yours? He who is a true child of God says to himself, “I do not ask how far I may go without crossing the line of safety, but I do ask that I may be kept from temptation and sin, and if there are some things that I might do, if they expose me to temptation, or expose others to it, I will have nothing to do with them.” Give me then, a man of tender heart, who at the same time, mixes full assurance with his tenderness. He is the man who will bring forth fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

Once again, our text suggests to us the blending of experience and knowledge. Read the Westminster Assembly’s Confession of Faith, by all manner of means get a clear view of the doctrines of grace, so that you can state them to others, and know why you hold them firmly yourself, but remember, if you do not experience them in your own heart, if you do not know the power of them in your own life, you know nothing at all about them.
Dry doctrine, without the dampening of the Spirit of God, may only make fuel for your eternal destruction. When a man accommodates his religion up in the garret of his head, and never takes it down into the parlor of his heart, that man’s religion is in vain. We must experience the power of the Gospel in our own souls if it is to be of real service to us.

“True religion’s more than notion,
_Something must be known and felt._”

It is very nice to talk about Christ, but do you trust Him as your Savior? It may be very easy to speak about the new birth, but have you felt it? When you get these two things together, first the rain of gracious experience, and then the clear shining of intellectual knowledge of Scripture, then will you bring forth fruit unto God.

I must not linger longer over this very interesting point of the clear shining after rain as illustrated in the soul of the believer.

III. But now, in the third place, I think dear friends, our text makes a very happy combination IN THE MINISTRY OF THE WORD.

You know that nowadays, people will listen to anybody, provided that he is a clever preacher. I am often astonished at congregations that had a grand old man for preacher, who always preached them good sound doctrine, and I thought their church was a very tower of orthodoxy, but when he died, they pick on somebody who preaches no one knows what, but then, he does it cleverly, and so they have him, to their eternal disgrace, and to the injury of the church of God.

What is a good sermon? Well, I am very much of the opinion of old King George the Third, in his latter days. The old man knew the truth and loved it, and when he used to hear his fine court chaplains, he would often go out of the chapel and say, “It will not do, nothing to feed a soul on.” Old George had not too much brains, but all the things he did know, he clung to.

Another time, as he went out of the chapel, he would say, “That will do, that will do, a soul can feed on that!” That was his way of judging a sermon, “Can a soul feed on it?” And if a soul could not feed on it, it did not suit George the Third. I hope that it will not suit you either, unless it stands this test, Can a soul feed on it?

You may have the best china dinner service, and the silver plate, and the damask tablecloth, but if on the table, there is nothing but dry bones, I would not recommend you to go there for dinner. We want something to eat both for our bodies and our souls if they are to be kept healthy.

He who would have a fruitful ministry must have clear shining after the rain, by which I mean, _first law, and then Gospel._ We must preach plainly against sin. In our ministry there must be rain, we must have the clouds and darkness, and divine justice bearing heavily upon the sinner’s conscience. Then comes in Christ crucified, full atonement, simple faith, and clear shining of comfort to the believing sinner. But there must be the rain first.

He who preaches all sweetness and all love, and has nothing to do with warning men of the consequences of sin, may be thought to be very loving, but in truth, he is altogether unfaithful to the souls of men. I do not suppose that any of you women can sew without needles. Yet your object is not simply to get the needle into the stuff, is it? No, you want to get in a bit of cotton, or thread, or silk.

Well now, try whether you can sew with a piece of silk alone. You cannot do so. You must put in the needle first, must you not? And he who would do any work for God must have a sharp needle, as he deals plainly with the sin of man, and he must then draw after it the silken thread of the Gospel of Christ. There must be rain first, and clear shining afterwards.

But dear friends, when we come to deal with you, we have to tell you that what we want to see in you is _first, repentance, and then zeal, rain, and then clear shining._ I am always sorry if my ministry produces men and women who, on a sudden, seem to become Christians directly, without any sense of sin, without any softening, without any fear of divine wrath, for I am afraid that those clear shinin without any rain will parch the ground, and make it dry, but never cause it to bring forth true fruit unto God.

In our ministry, dear friends, it must not be so, and here I speak to my fellow Christians as well as to myself. Your ministry may be in the Sunday school, or in street preaching, or sick visiting, but all true ministry must have rain about it as well as sunshine.

If your service is to be successful, bringing glory to God, there must be in it, first prayer, and then blessing. You must go forth with prayer, you must go forth weeping, bearing precious seed, and afterwards there will come the clear shining, when you return rejoicing, bringing your sheaves with you.
God will bless and prosper your work if you go to it in the spirit of your Savior, but there must be deep anxiety in your soul, and great longings and anguish before God, if you expect to have the Lord’s blessing resting upon your efforts to serve Him.

I think my text also means grace softening, and then shining. I wish that the Lord would visit all His church with a heavy shower of rain, I mean, by way of softening the church, making the church loving in spirit, and anxious for souls. Then what would happen? The Lord would soon visit it with clear shining, and we should see conversions as numerous as the blades of grass which spring up in the fields.

Oh, come, come, divine dew, and rest on this assembly now, and on this church all the days of the week! Then shine, O Sun of righteousness, with glorious warmth and power, and we shall soon see a plentiful harvest, to the praise and glory of our God!

This is, I think, the meaning of the expression, “clear shining after rain,” as applied to the ministry of the Word.

IV. I have done when I have said just this much with regard to the clear shining after rain IN THE AGES TO COME.

I am no prophet, nor the son of a prophet. Every now and then I see the walls of our city placarded with an intimation that something very wonderful is going to happen in such and such a year. Now, believe me, brethren, it may be, but then it may not be. Whenever I find a brother quite sure about what will happen on April the 1st, in such and such a year, I begin to wonder whether he knows anything at all about the subject. I suspect that all those who prophesy in these days, apart from the sacred Word, are as much to be respected as the Norwood gipsy, and no more. And yet I am now going to turn prophet, taking my prophecy out of the Word of God.

And first, times of gloom are to be expected. There has been held in this city of London, a conference with regard to the establishment of peace. I heartily sympathize with the grand object of that conference. Oh, that wars might cease unto the ends of the earth! War is the sum of all villainies. There is nothing to be said for it. It is a monstrous thing that men should murder one another wholesale. But there will be no end of war from anything that you and I can do apart from preaching the Gospel of Christ.

When the King comes, when Jesus comes, when the King shall reign in righteousness, there will be an end to war, but till then there will be wars and rumors of wars, and when you hear of them, do not be disturbed as though everything was going to pieces. There will be clear shinings after the rain. Ay, thougt it be a reign of blood, afterwards He shall shine out who is our peace, and who will set up an un-suffering kingdom which shall know no end.

In religious matters, do not expect that the world will go on getting better and better. I think the belief that it is already much improved has a very slight foundation of fact. We have learned the art of hiding sin behind the vestments of hypocrisy, but we are not much better after all. We have changed the fashion of sin, but the sin is there.

Now, do not expect to see the churches always sound, and religion always spreading. You may see, somebody will see, a falling away before the coming of Christ, and a departure from the faith. “The love of many shall wax cold.” It shall come to pass that, if you ask for faith, you will scarcely find it, for “When the Son of man cometh, shall He find faith on the earth?” Scarcely. It will be a very rare commodity, but be not distressed, even though all men are turned aside from the Christ of God, for there will be “clear shinings after the rain.”

Although times of gloom are to be expected, an age of light will follow. There will come a day when Christ shall reign amongst His ancients gloriously, when the ungodly shall hide themselves in obscure places, the meek shall have dominion in the earth, and the sons of God in that morning shall be owned as the noblest of men. There is to come yet “a thousand years” (whatever that period may mean) of a reign of righteousness, wherein the whole of the earth shall be filed with the glory of God, and become the vestibule of heaven. Have comfort about that glorious truth.

Now, dear friend, with regard to yourself, it may be that unless the Lord shall soon come to His temple, you will grow old, and as you grow old, the clouds will return after the rain. You will get into times of infirmity when there will be rain, and rain, and rain, and rain, and perhaps, little sunshine, yet expect that, before you die, you will come to the clear shining after the rain.

There is a place called the land of Beulah. It lies on the verge of the Jordan, but it also lies with that little stream before it, on the verge of the heavenly Canaan. That land is full of light and flowers, and I have heard that, if the wind blows in the right direction, you may hear the music of heaven in that land, and from a hill in that land you may see the Celestial City.

I have known some old men and women who have reached the land of Beulah. It has been a great delight to me to sit and talk with them in their last days. They have had clear shinings after the rain. They have told me all about the rain, about the children dying, about the wife who was buried long ago, about the poverty they passed through, about the persecution they endured, and so on, and so on. All that is rain, but they have never been able to tell me all about the clear shinings, but they have said that they felt as happy as they could be out of heaven, and they had no particular wish about whether they should stay or whether they should go.

I saw the other day an old man who had passed his ninety-first year, and though he looked like little more than a skeleton, it was grand to hear him speak of the faithfulness of God, and the doctrines of the Gospel. He was as clear on those points as ever he was, and perhaps even firmer. It was a great treat to listen to him.

I pray that all of us may, in due time, get to the land Beulah, where all is bright and happy, and there may we dwell till the post comes from the King to say that we must pass the stream to joyfully behold our Lord, and oh, what clear shining after rain will there be when we once get home, when we behold His face, and when we, like Himself, have risen from the dead and stand perfect and complete in our flesh to behold our God! Oh, the glory and the bliss of being—

after the rain is over and gone! Go through it. Never be afraid of all the drenchings you may get on your way to glory. Get home as quickly as you can along the good old road, for after the rain comes the clear shining. Be this the motto of each one of you from this sweet Sabbath evening hour, “Clear shining after rain.” God bless you all! Amen.

EXPOSITION BY C. H. SPURGEON

PSALM 32

A psalm of David.

You can see David all through this psalm, here we have David’s sin, David’s confession of sin, David’s pardon. It is a psalm of David. Oh, that we might each one, make it our own! It is entitled—

This is an instructive psalm. The experience of one man is instructive to another. We learn the way in which we should walk, and sometimes the way in which we should not walk, by observing the footsteps of the flock. The psalm begins with a blessing.

Verse 1. Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered.

I think I hear a sort of sigh of relief, as if the man had been burdened with a load of guilt, and now at last his sin is put away, and his sigh has more solemn joy in it than if it had been a song, “Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered.”

Beloved, you must know the bitterness of sin before you can know the blessedness of forgiveness, and you must have such a sight of sin as shall break your heart before you can understand the blessedness of the divine covering, that sacred coverlet which hides sin effectually, blots it out, and even makes it cease to be. “Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered.”

Would you not think so, dear burdened heart, if it ever came to your lot? I hope that it will be so tonight. Do not we think so, who remember the day when almighty mercy forgave us our transgression, and covered our sin? Indeed we do. This is one of the greatest blessings out of heaven. Perhaps, for a sort of still soft melody with much of the minor in it, this is the sweetest music in the whole Book, “Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered.”

Now David must put the same truth in another form. He loves to reduplicate, to repeat again and again a truth which is very precious to him.

2. Blessed is the man unto whom the LORD imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile.

Here are two reasons for the man’s blessedness, sin is not laid to his charge, and he is no longer deceitful, he no longer tries to palliate and to excuse his sin, he makes a clean breast of it, and God, in a higher sense, gives him a clean breast. He acknowledges the justice of God, and God displays His infinite mercy to him.

Now David tells us how he learned this sacred blessedness, what were the ways by which he went, which ended at last in this divine sweetness.

3-4. When I kept silence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long. For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: my moisture is turned into the drought of summer.

I understand this to have been the feeling of David after his great sin, before he confessed it. He tried to excuse it to his conscience. It has been thought by some that David was, for at least nine months, in a very insensible state, but he does not appear to have been so. All the time until his sin was confessed and acknowledged, he was miserable.

Because there was divine grace in his heart, sin could not dwell there with comfort. As he would not own his sin before the bar of God, pleading guilty, and waiting for judgment, as he kept silence, it preyed upon him so that he seemed to grow prematurely old, and that, not only in his skin and his flesh, but his very bones were affected, “My bones waxed old.” Those solid pillars of the house of manhood trembled and were shaken under his awful sense of sin.

You cannot be a child of God and sin, and then be happy. Other men may sin cheaply, but you cannot. If you are a man after God’s own heart, and you venture into uncleanness, it will sting you as does a viper, it will burn within your bones like coals of juniper.

“When I kept silence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long.” David did pray, but he did not dare to call it prayer. It was like the moaning and groaning of a beast that is wounded, and faint, and near to die, and this terrible pain was upon him always, “For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me.” God has a heavy hand for His sinful children. Other fathers may spoil their children with indulgence, but the Lord will not spoil His children.

If we sin, we shall feel the weight of God’s hand. We ought to thank Him for this, for though it brings great sorrow, yet it brings great safety to us. The worst thing that can happen to a man is to be allowed to sin, and yet to be happy in it. One of the best things for an erring believer is a taste of his Father’s rod.
“Thy hand was heavy upon me: my moisture is turned into the drought of summer.” All David’s joy was squeezed out, pressed out, by the heavy hand of God. His flowers ceased to bloom, his fruit was withered, his experience was nothing but a hard drought, without a drop of moisture.

When David had gone so far, and had played only on the bass strings so long, he said, “Selah,” that is, “Screw up the harp strings, let us put them in tune again. We are going up to something better now.”

5. I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the LORD; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. Selah.

Oh, how swift is the divine compassion! Quick upon the heels of confession came that word from Nathan, “The LORD also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die.” I can fancy David standing there, with the hot tears in his eyes, never so broken down as when his sin was all forgiven. Before he knew that he was pardoned, he stood tremblingly fearful, brokenhearted before God, but when Nathan had said (I will repeat those gracious words), “The LORD also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die,” oh, what gratitude he felt, and what tenderness, and what hatred of sin!

Dear hearer, if you are burdened under a sense of sin, go and make confession to God straight away. If you feel very heavy tonight at the recollection of some great and grievous offense, if some scarlet spot is on your hand, and you cannot get rid of it, go and show it to God. With penitential honesty confess the sin, and it shall be forgiven you.

“Selah.” Now David puts the harp strings right again. They still seem to suffer from the previous strain, and so he says “Selah” once more. “Sursum corda.” Lift up the heart, let the whole soul go up to God.

6-7. For this shall every one that is godly pray unto thee in a time when thou mayest be found: surely in the floods of great waters they shall not come nigh unto him. Thou art my hiding place;

He had talked in the first verse, of his sin being covered. Now he not only hides his sin beneath the divine covering, but he hides himself beneath the divine shelter, “Thou art my hiding place.” Thus does the believer sing—

“Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee.”

7. Thou shalt preserve me from trouble;

Lord, if You have taken away the greatest of all troubles, that is, guilt on the conscience, if You have really forgiven me, what trouble have I to be afraid of? “Thou shalt preserve me from trouble.”

7. Thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance. Selah.

If You have pardoned me, there is the making of all manner of music in the fact of my pardon. He that is washed by the precious blood of Jesus is the man to sing. Has not God made a chorister of him? John tells us in the Revelation, that one of the elders said to him, concerning the white robed throng, “These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple.”

“Selah.” David must screw up the strings of his harp again, for now he wishes to exult in God, and to magnify His holy name, as he listens to his Lord’s gracious words.

8. I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way, which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye.

Here is another blessing. The God who has forgiven the errings of the past, will preserve us from erring again. God’s flowers always bloom double. He gives us justification, but He adds sanctification. He pardons our sins, but He also makes disciples and scholars of us, and teaches us the art of holiness, which is the noblest art that man can learn, “I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye.” When we are willing to be guided, we hardly need a word from God, a look is enough, just a glance of His eye, “I will guide thee with mine eye.”

9. Be ye not as the horse, or as the mule, which have no understanding: whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle, lest they come near unto thee.
Do you want bits and bridles? If you want them, you shall have them. If you will be a horse or a mule, you shall be treated as horses and mules are. There are some Christians that need to be driven with a very sharp snaffle, and they need to have their mouth made very tender, for now they are hard-mouthed, and sometimes, they take the bit between their teeth, and try to run away instead of doing God’s bidding.

Usually, the rods with which God scourges us are made of reeds grown in our own gardens. When God hides His face from His people, it is almost always behind clouds of dust which they have themselves made. You will have sorrow enough in the ordinary way to heaven, do not make an extra rod for your own back.

10. Many sorrows shall be to the wicked:
This refers to you who are outside the family of God, who do not come under His rod, you are not in His love and favor, for you have no faith in His dear Son. Do not think that you will escape punishment. If the Lord “scourgeth every son whom he receiveth,” what will He do to His enemies? “Many sorrows shall be to the wicked.”

10. But he that trusteth in the LORD, mercy shall compass him about.
He always wants mercy, for he is a sinner still. He shall always have mercy, for his Savior lives still. “Mercy shall compass him about.”

11. Be glad in the LORD, and rejoice, ye righteous: and shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart.
Be demonstrative, let men see that you are happy, “Shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart.” The psalm is a joyful one, after all. David’s experience has taken him through a deep sense of his own sin, but it has brought him out into an elevated sense of God’s mercy, so he closes the psalm with the jubilant exhortation, “Shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart.” So let us do this night, and for ever. Amen.
